

Reva Chatman-Buckley, Ed.D.

Associate Professor of Graduate Research & Research Coordination Lipscomb University College of Education Nashville, Tennessee

"[was	predestined	to	teach."
----	-----	-------------	----	---------

Professional Biography

Reva Chatman-Buckley intended to go into broadcast journalism, and then life lead her to the field of education. Her career has included classroom teaching, school administration, district-level leadership, and university research and instruction. Reva is passionate about the importance of community building and a focus on the success of each student within educational settings. She is the author of the book Fresh Roses: Teachers as Newcomers: Learning the Ropes at a New School (2015).

Lessons Learned

- ➤ Use an activity designed to get individuals talking and building a sense of community before beginning to teach or work with a group.
- ➤ Continue to build or strengthen community/belonging connections during the school year.
- > Students pay more attention to what you do than what you say.
- ➤ Take time to establish consensus and ownership of an idea, discipline plan, or method of operation before implementation.

Favorite Resources

Books

- ➤ The Holy Bible
- ➤ Lortie, D. C. (1977). Schoolteacher; a sociological study. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.
- ➤ Bolman, L. G. (2008). Reframing Organizations: Artistry, Choice, and Leadership. Wiley & Sons, Incorporated, John.

Quotes

"I can do all things through Christ, which strengtheneth me."

- Philippians 4:13

"The single story creates stereotypes, and the problem with stereotypes is not that they are untrue, but that they are incomplete. They make one story become the only story."

— Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie

Podcast Episode	_	Run	Time	9:42
http://podcas	t.ay	ersin	stitute	e.org

