Presenter: Julia Osteen, Technology Integration Specialist, Ayers Institute for Teacher Learning & Innovation at Lipscomb University, julia.osteen@lipscomb.edu

Session description: We know that new tools arrive on the scene every year and there are new advances in infrastructure which makes integrating technology in the classroom a moving target. Tech coaching can help teachers navigate these changes. In this session we will explore the ISTE standards for teachers, consider who might fill the role of tech coach, understand what coaching is and is not, and identify the benefits of tech coaching for all involved. Session participants will leave with a vision for showing up first as "coach" to enhance their own work and the work of their colleagues.
